

MICHIGAN ENERGY OFFICE

The Michigan Energy Office

(MEO), promotes energy efficiency and renewable energy resource development to Michigan residents, businesses and public institutions.

A U.S. Department of Energy designated state energy office, the MEO operates as a division of the Michigan Economic Development Corporation.

Program objectives include:

- Support of policy and program development
- Developing beneficial public-private partnerships at the local level
- Increasing energy efficiency in the public and private sectors
- Reducing Michigan's dependence on imported energy
- Encouraging the adoption and growth of new technologies and alternative fuels in buildings, industrial processes, vehicles and power generation

Program objectives are advanced through a variety of services, including informational resources, technical assistance, financial assistance and demonstration projects.

Core areas of strategic support:

- Building sciences
- Residential programs
- Transportation
- Sustainable communities
- Commercial/industrial programs that support business growth

The MEO also provides learning opportunities for Michigan's residents, businesses and institutions that:

- Teach the importance of energy efficiency and renewable energy resources to our economy; and
- Increase the adoption of energy efficiency and renewable energy technologies and practices within the state resulting in sustainable energy production, conservation and job creation.

Michigan
Energy Office
